

We want your stories!

As we kick off a year full of celebrating family medicine teaching excellence marked by the Section of Teachers (SOT) 40th Anniversary, we invite you to share your stories, reflections, opinions, and advice on the past, present, and future of family medicine teaching through the Canadian Family Physician \(CFP\) blog!

Blog submissions are accepted any time in English and French to education@cfpc.ca and will be published monthly over the next year.

Please include:

- A photo, if possible
- A short biography (one or two sentences only)
- Declaration of any conflicts of interest in your submission

You may find inspiration by reviewing:

- The first blog post in the series, "See One, Do One?", featuring this year's Ian McWhinney Family Medicine Education Award recipient, Dr. Michel Donoff
- This month's commentary in CFP, "The times, are they a-changin'?", which celebrates the SOT's accomplishments over the past 40 years and looks to the challenges of the future

Blog Tips

- Brevity is key—keep it to a maximum of 500 words
- Intriguing, controversial titles are likely to gain more attention
- Check out past CFP blog posts for ideas
- You can find more information by reading the CFP Blog Guidelines

Bonus

Dr. Tanya Thornton, FMF 2017, Montreal

Submit your story for the Mimi Divinsky Award for History and Narrative in Family Medicine, by March 1, 2019, for the opportunity to receive up to $1,500 to offset travel costs and other expenses related to attending Family Medicine Forum \(FMF\) 2019 in Vancouver, where the award will be presented. Stories may also be highlighted in our monthly communiques and social media.
